PRODUCTS & SERVICES

Pre-Filter

A pre-filter is a preliminary filtration device used to seize large particles or contaminants, protecting the main filter or system from clogging and improving overall efficiency and lifespan. It's commonly used in air, water, and industrial filtration systems.

Velcro Insect Screen

A Velcro insect screen is a mesh screen designed to block insects such as mosquitoes, flies, and other pests from entering through windows or doors. It attaches using Velcro strips (hook-and-loop fasteners), making it easy to install, remove, and maintain. These screens are popular in homes, especially in areas with a high mosquito population, because they offer an effective and flexible way to improve comfort and safety.

PRODUCTS & SERVICES

Roll-up insect screen

A roll-up insect screen is a type of retractable screen designed to block insects while allowing air and light into a room. It works similarly to a roller blind, with the mesh screen rolling into a housing cassette when not in use. This type of screen is sleek, convenient, and well-suited for windows, doors, and even balcony entrances.

Blinds

A blind is a type of window covering designed to control the amount of light, privacy, and airflow entering a space. Unlike curtains or drapes, blinds consist of slats (also called louvers or vanes) or fabric panels that can be tilted, raised, or lowered, giving more precise control over visibility and light. Blinds are available in various materials, styles, and configurations, making them popular for both residential and commercial settings.
